BROOKS TAKES PART IN TARIFF DEBATE

Centennial State Representative Tells Solons About Colorado and Its Sugar Industry. Nearly All Speeches Were in Opposition to the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Interest was injected into the Philippine tariff debate by a characteristic study of the Filipino by Mr. Longworth of Ohio and by a defense of President Roosevelt by Mr. Pou, a Democrat from North Carolina. Besides these, there were a number of speeches delivered on the merits of the bill, nearly all of which were in opposition to the measure. During the day an agreement was reached whereby the debate is to continue for two days more. The measure will be taken up for amendment under the five-minute rule Tuesday and presumably disposed of on that day.

Asserting that the beet sugar industry was the essential factor in the success of the irrigation proposition in the west, Mr. Brooks of Colorado characterized as bad statesmanship any action that would imperil it. It for alone in 11 years the sugar beet would furnish half the sugar consumed in the country. In six years the industry in Colorado has increased its production to 80,000 tons annually, with a value of $4,750,000.

Mr. Brooks provoked good-natured applause by applying Mr. Dalzell's argument addressed to the beet sugar industry, "You need no protection. What you need is improved methods," to the iron and steel industry of Pittsburg.

The statement of Mr. Dalzell that it would cost $118 a hundred to lay Philippine sugar down in New York was disputed by Mr. Brooks. The friends of the bill, he said, claimed that under the figures quoted, 200,000 tons of sugar would come here. Beet sugar men were not afraid of that amount, but were afraid of the amount they themselves believed would come, from 700,000 to 1,000,000 tons. The Filipino laborer, who would produce sugar, Mr. Brooks said, wears for clothes a breech clout; he gets his breakfast from a tree, his dinner from the same tree and works for 15 cents a day. This is the labor that will be placed in competition with the American laborer.

Mr. Lamar, Florida, said that an effectual repeal of the Chinese exclusion act would be accomplished so far as the tobacco industry is concerned by the passage of the bill. This, he said, would benefit only the American Tobacco company.

Opposition was made to the bill by Mr. Howell of Utah on the ground that it would not be a benefit to, but would threaten the very existence of the beet sugar industry, of which time the Republican party voted a bounty of 2 cents a pound to encourage it. Now that party, he said, was about to destroy it.

A brief speech against the bill was made by Mr. McCall of Massachusetts, who said that from a tariff standpoint he saw no difference in this country trading free trade with the Philippines and with any other country in the world.

In a 5-minute speech Mr. Longworth, who gave the house his impression of his Philippine trip last summer, Mr. Longworth was greeted with applause and marked attention was given his explanation of the Filipino character. He favored the bill as the best means of aiding the Filipino in his condition of subjection, which, he said, would be worse than glad to drop the islands. The passage of the bill, he said, would not damage one iota any American industry or American laborer employed in that industry.

"I am not in favor of holding the Philippines as a part of the United States one moment longer than we absolutely have to," he said. "I am in favor of turning those islands over to the Filipinos to govern themselves at the very first moment that they have proved to us that they are capable of governing themselves. How soon that time may come, Providence alone knows, but I say the sooner the better."

Turning to the incident of the ejection of Mrs. Minor Morris from the executive office at the White house, Mr. Pou of North Carolina expressed regret that hysteria had been indulged in to magnify that incident.

At 4:55 the house adjourned.

ECUADOREAN REVOLUTION ENDS IN REBELS' DEFEAT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Maximilian Marin, consul general of Ecuador, received the following cable yesterday from President Garcia:

"QUITO, Jan. 9.—Tell the colony in New York that the revolution is over."

GUAYAQUIL, Jan. 12.—The rebels have abandoned Rio Bamba and are marching north. General Alfaro, commander of the government troops, has occupied Rio Bamba.

The revolution which has just ended, according to Consul General Marin, had its inception in the desire of General Alfaro, a former president of the republic, once more to occupy the presidential chair. General Alfaro hoped to get control of the army and with the assistance of the soldiers to overthrow President Garcia and establish a military government.

Mr. Marin says that a battalion of 700 soldiers joined General Alfaro on New Years day, thinking that the remainder of the army, numbering 4,000, would follow them. The revolutionists took possession of Rio Bamba. When the remainder of the army marched on the revolutionary capital, however, Mr. Marin said the insurgents capitulated without firing a shot.

The punishment which will be meted out to the revolutionists, according to Mr. Marin, will be unique.

"It would be impossible to punish a whole battalion individually," he said, "so only one man in every 10 will be sent to prison for two or three years each."

Mr. Marin said that General Alfaro probably would be sent to prison for 15 years.

Testimony will be taken tomorrow following the hearing in court on the matter of compelling Mr. Rogers to testify.

PARIS CONSIDERS RELATIONS ENDED

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Though M. Mabourguet, the Venezuelan charge d'affaires, has not yet received his passports, diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela are considered to have been broken off. There is no question for the present of a naval demonstration but there is no doubt that the French government has due to have the fullest recognition and respect for its rights.

An official note issued tonight says that although an ultimatum has not yet been sent to Venezuela, France can not tolerate much longer. President Castro's refusal to accede to the French demands without considering the advisability of taking stronger means to enforce them.

The names of the cattlemen have not yet been secured, but officers have gone to the scene to make an investigation and arrests. The band of sheep in the camp attacked belonged to Hatch and Hyde of Weber, Utah.

GREATER POWER THAN NIAGARA'S

CAPITALISTS FORM $50,000,000 CORPORATION TO PUSH GIGANTIC PROJECT IN CALIFORNIA.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 12.—A vast project to take up the water of Feather river in northern California and carry it through tunnels and aqueducts [illegible] 400,000 horsepower has been developed to supply all the towns of the Sacramento valley, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley with electric power is the purpose of a $50,000,000 corporation organized by T. Brown Wilson & Co., of New York and San Francisco.

The corporation is backed by T. H. Ray, Edwin Hawley and A. C. Bedford, all prominent in the financial world of New York city, and the project is but the nucleus of a vast chain of similar projects which will extend through Oregon and Washington and for which $100,000,000 is to be set aside for development.

Such is the statement of Frank L. Brown and Marsden Hanson, a San Francisco engineer who are in this city.

By means of this great project it will be possible to generate approximately 400,000 horsepower or more than three times the power furnished by the famous plant at Niagara Falls.

This project is at the head of the Sacramento valley and will furnish power for this valley and to San Francisco by means of two pole transmission lines, 175 miles in length.

COMMITTEES DECIDE TO WORK TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Committees of the old rules committee on football and the recently appointed new rules committee met in joint conference tonight and finally passed resolutions amalgamating. The resolutions provide that the chairman should be elected from the old committee with the secretary from the new committee. Walter Camp of Yale was selected as editor of whatever rules are to be adopted. A ballot taken after amalgamation elected T. C. E. Dennis of Cornell, as chairman, from the old committee, and J. A. Babbitt of Haverford, as secretary from the new committee. Mr. Babbitt resigned in favor of W. T. Reid, of Harvard, who was unanimously elected secretary.

STEAMER RAN ASHORE NEAR ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 12.—The Clyde line steamer Cherokee from San Domingo for New York, ran ashore today near South Brigantine life saving station and tonight is still fast aground. According to the captain of the Brigantine life saving crew there is little possibility of the vessel being floated at high water.

When the vessel went aground there was a panic among the passengers and they demanded that they be taken off at once. After assuring them that they were in no immediate danger, the life savers stood by the steamer to be ready for any emergency.

CITY WILL SPEND $10,000 TO SECURE MORE WATER RIGHTS

Present Conditions Are Thoroughly Discussed by Prominent Taxpayers Before City Council—Committee of Aldermen to Inspect Ranches and Water Rights Tomorrow.

After listening to the arguments of a number of prominent people in the council chamber last evening, the city council voted to purchase the Bear and Height ranches on Beaver Creek together with their water rights, subject to the approval of a committee of six aldermen who will visit the property tomorrow. The description of the Height ranch and water rights costing $4,000 and the Height, Hogman, Hill, Albin and Verner is the committee that will leave here this afternoon to inspect the property, and if the report is favorable the money will at once be placed in the bank in accordance with the terms of the option now held.

Alderman Snodgrass introduced the subject by saying that the meeting was held to secure the advice of the people before taking any steps looking additional water rights on Beaver creek. He discussed certain water suits that are now pending against the city and explained that Prof. L. C. Carpenter had been retained by the city to investigate the actual conditions.

Pueblo People Busy.

During the investigation it had come to light that certain Pueblo interests were engaged in securing all the water rights in the Beaver valley for water and power purposes. One valuable water right and ranch that was offered to the city less than two years ago had already been disposed of to Pueblo people for nearly double the sum it was offered to Colorado Springs for. Knowing these conditions, Prof. Carpenter had secured a number of options which he was willing to surrender to the city at the same price he had if the city desired to take advantage of the offer.

Existing Conditions.

Prof. L. C. Carpenter was introduced and pointed out that although Colorado Springs owned the first priority on Beaver creek, there are other cities that look to Beaver creek for their water supply and there is reason to believe that these towns would like to secure additional rights along that stream. Cripple Creek, Gillett, Altman and Victor looked to Beaver creek below the Seven lakes is the Woods power reservoir, and then come the farmers. Many small ditches supply the fruit farms that fill the valley below the canon and extend to the Arkansas river. The water rights in that region were being bought up, and while purchases were fixed upon Colorado Springs, no notice has been taken of the claims of these other cities.

Struggle for Rights.

The gist of the matter, the speaker declared, is that Colorado Springs is taking nothing away that it can use. Prof. Carpenter urged, however, that the city should not neglect its opportunities at this time. The watershed that supplies not only this city, but Colorado City, Manitou, and the towns of the Cripple Creek district is limited nevertheless. Pueblo is also looking toward the same watershed. The struggle for water rights has never been so great as now and the result has been a material advance in the cost of water. Prof. Carpenter believed it would advance more rapidly in the next five years.

Legal Point of View.

Attorney Henry McAllister, Jr., discussed the matter from a legal standpoint, reviewing the suits now pending against the city by the town of Victor and the farmers of Fremont county. He believed it would be a wise investment for the city to spend $10,000 to $12,000 in securing additional water rights rather than see the rights go to other cities or private corporations. When the city

REACH VERDICT IN HAZING CASE

DECATUR WILL SOON KNOW THE OUTCOME OF HIS COURT MARTIAL—BEGINNING ANOTHER CASE.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 12.—A verdict in the court martial case against Midshipman Decatur, on a charge of hazing, was reached at 12:30 today. The record of the findings will be transmitted to the superintendent of the naval academy.

If Decatur has been acquitted he will be released within a few hours of the receipt of the record, but if convicted, the court martial must receive the approval of the secretary of the navy before the sentence, which can only be dismissal, will be operative.

In the afternoon session the court took up the case of Midshipman Miller of Kentucky. Little was done, however, as the court, upon the suggestion of Judge Advocate Harrison, decided that four of the specifications were not in proper form, and they were sent back for correction. The trial will be resumed tomorrow morning.

LOSS IN HOTEL FIRE IS $150,000

SECTION OF THE LARGEST HOSTELRY IN CANADA WAS BURNED LAST NIGHT—NO LIVES LOST.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—A section of the Windsor hotel was destroyed by fire tonight, causing a loss estimated at $150,000. Only the form in which the building was constructed saved the remainder of the hotel, which is the largest in Canada. Heavy brick walls and fireproof doors confined the flames to the section where they originated.

The guests had plenty of time to remove their belongings and at no time was there anything like a panic. Manager Welder and Steward Dunn were injured while fighting the fire before the arrival of the firemen. Both [illegible] will recover.

CLAIM WEAVER IS OUT OF THE GUBERNATORIAL RACE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—The regular Republicans of this city held conventions today for the nomination of candidates for magistrate, city councils and school directors and the selection of delegates to the state convention at Harrisburg, June 6.

Recently it has been intimated that Mayor Weaver, as a result of his fight for reform, be urged as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and the statement has been made that the delegation [illegible] will [illegible] his candidacy. The surprising result of today's convention, it is stated, means that Mayor Weaver is eliminated from consideration for the Republican nomination for governor.

A close friend of Senator Penrose stated tonight that John M. Mack, who had been hailed as the new leader of the local Republican organization to succeed former Insurance Commissioner Durham, failed in his effort to elect a delegation from Philadelphia favorable to the candidacy of Mayor Weaver. Mr. Durham and other friends of Senator Penrose claim that with Mayor Weaver out of the contest for the governorship, the Philadelphia delegation will be unanimous in the state convention for the candidate Senator Penrose will favor. On the other hand those opposed to Senator Penrose and the Republican state organization claim the delegation elected today will be against all nominees favored by Senator Penrose and his friends. They admit that more than 100 of the 114 delegates are not in sympathy with the Penrose wing of the party.

"RED SUNDAY" IN RUSSIA TO TAKE FORM OF A STRIKE

Proletariat Organizations to Send Delegates to Foreign Countries to Thank Workers Who Will Join in Observance of the Anniversary.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—The workmen's council, after consulting with the leaders of the other proletariat organizations, today decided that the celebration of the anniversary of January 22 "Red Sunday," should take the form of a general strike for a single day. Delegates were appointed to go to France, Germany and England as well as other places for the purpose of thanking the workers of those countries who purpose to join in a general observance of the anniversary.

A three-cornered discussion is in progress between General Martynoff, the Molva and the Novoe Vremya over the question of personal bravery of the Jews. The controversy was precipitated by an article signed by General Martynoff in which the Jewish soldiers were stigmatized as cowards and in which it was declared that they resorted to every conceivable ruse in order to avoid service. The article said that those who actually reached Manchuria feigned sickness before every fight and that the fright of the Jews in battle was enough to shake the morale of an entire regiment. The Jews, the article said, [illegible] the gravity of the charge. In [illegible] on account of cowardice and physical weakness, was not fit to be a soldier.

The Molva took up the cudgels on behalf of the Jews, warmly defending their moral courage and giving them credit for bearing the brunt of the revolutionary struggle and explaining that any faults they may have shown at the front were born of their detestation of the rule of their oppressors.

The Novoe Vremya sided with General Martynoff, but acknowledged the ability of the Jews who, it said, were the real organizers of the revolution.

The paper berates those foreigners in the United States and elsewhere who raise money to buy weapons for the defense of the poor Russian Jews, which are in reality used to fight the government. The foreigners blame the government for the harsh measures adopted to quell rebellion.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—The first advices received by the government from Siberia after the restoration of telegraphic communication show that the most critical conditions prevailed there during the recent strike but that with the arrival of [illegible]

FEARS FOR OUTCOME OF THE FRANCE-VENEZUELA SITUATION

GIVES HINTS OF PUNITIVE MEASURES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Although the present breach in the diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela is technically chargeable against the personality of M. Taigny, the French charge at Caracas, the real issue, as it is understood here, is the attack of President Castro upon the properties and franchises of the French Cable company.

The president asserted that the cable company had lent active assistance to the Matos rebellion. Therefore he began proceedings in the Venezuelan courts against the company on that score and also complained that the company had violated the terms of its concession in not laying certain coast lines of cable and especially in crossing the island of Santo Domingo with land wires subject to interruption in times of rebellion on that island.

The courts sustained the president's view and in fact practically took possession of the company's offices at certain points, when the French government intervened. In the absence of the regular minister, M. Taigny presented a written protest to the Venezuelan government. President Castro regarded this note as insulting to his government and refused to have anything to do with M. Taigny. But the French government refused to allow the dispute to be made a personal one, and declared that M. Taigny, in his presentment had followed precisely the instructions of his foreign office.

At this point, Mr. Russell, the American minister at Caracas, intervened in the interest of peace and after many exchanges it was believed that he had finally succeeded. But while he induced President Castro to withdraw a note refusing to do business with M. Taigny, which note the French government regarded as offensive, he could not prevail upon President Castro to resume his official relations with the French charge.

The climax came on New Years day when the French government, supposing that a satisfactory settlement had been reached, received with the usual honors of the New Years day reception the Venezuelan minister at Paris only to learn that President Castro had refused to do likewise for M. Taigny at Caracas. This omission touched the pride of the French government, which felt it had been made the victim of double dealing and deceit which fact the French ambassador in Washington was not slow to communicate to the state department.

Mr. Russell reported his failure to effect a settlement, thereby making himself unpopular in Caracas and then came notice from the French government that diplomatic relations with Venezuela were completely severed. There is a hint of punitive measures on the part of France, and the situation is regarded officially as very unpleasant, with possibilities of serious consequences.

COLORADO CITY

PLAN TO ESTABLISH BRANCH OF Y. M. C. A. BOYS' DEPARTMENT

At a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. building in Colorado Springs, Friday night, the following committee was appointed to solicit funds with which to establish a boy's branch of the Y. M. C. A. in this city: L. B. Grafton, J. P. Jackson, John B. Stephen, Mayor John F. Murray and the Rev. Charles F. Seitter.

The committee held a meeting in the office of J. P. Jackson yesterday afternoon and decided it would require about $700 to establish the branch properly, and if this sum can not be raised the project will be abandoned. The spacious basement of the First National bank building has been selected for quarters as it is finely finished and steam heated.

A woodwork department capable of accommodating ten beginners will be maintained under a competent instructor.

The plan meets with favor and there is little doubt that the money will be easily raised.

HERRERA WON FROM YOUNG CORBETT IN FIFTH ROUND

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Aurelio Herrera, of Bakersfield, Cal., knocked out Young Corbett in the fifth round tonight at the Pacific Athletic club pavilion.

Herrera's victory was an easy one. Corbett's exhibition was disappointing. He lacked the vim and dash that had won so many battles for him and his once forceful blows failed to in[illegible] his opponent. The fight came near ending in the first round. In the last minute of the round Herrera caught Corbett on the jaw with left and right in quick succession and sent him staggering against the ropes but over anxiety to land the finishing blow caused him to swing wildly and Corbett quickly gathered his wits and stalled off defeat for the time being.

In the fourth Corbett showed a brief burst of his old-time force, twice forcing Herrera against the ropes and landing with both hands. Early in the fifth round Herrera succeeded in countering solidly with his right on Corbett's jaw and the Denver boy staggered. Quick as a flash the Californian was upon him and with a series of rights and lefts sent him to the floor. Corbett got up immediately but again went down from a light swing that caught him on the side of the head. He struggled to his feet at the count of six and tried to clinch. Herrera pushed him against the ropes and setting himself, swung a vicious right flush to the jaw. Corbett fell upon his face and lay in that position until he was counted out. He was carried to his corner and it required five minutes work by his seconds to bring him around.

There was considerable betting on the fight. At first the odds were 10 to 8 in Corbett's favor, but today they switched to even money and tonight there was no Corbett money in sight at 10 to 9 with Herrera favorite.

BANKER HOPES FOR HIS LIBERTY

IMBODEN SAYS THAT HE WAS TRIED BY A JURY OF DAVINGS BANK DEPOSITORS.

DENVER, Jan. 12.—A new policy has been prepared with reference to the appeal of Leonard Imboden to the supreme court.

One of the strongest points to be raised by the attorneys for the bankers will be based upon information received by them this morning that several of the jurors in the bank cases were depositors in the Denver Savings bank. The motion of Imboden's counsel to have them barred was overruled.

Today the attorneys received word from H. C. Selheimer, Mr. Banks' former partner in Birmingham, Ala., saying the supreme court of that [illegible] Judge Jackson, who tried this bank wrecking case, was a depositor in the bank and decided the matter adversely to the defendants.

The supreme court of Alabama has reversed the finding on the ground that Judge Jackson was incompetent to try such a case. Mr. Banks has wired for the text of the decision, saying that if an interested judge is incompetent to decide the law in such a case, an interested juror is incompetent to decide the facts.

Three of the jurors who tried Imboden and Hill said on examination that they were depositors in the Denver Savings bank, but the defense had exhausted its peremptory challenges and these jurors were therefore not challenged.

Deputy District Attorney John C. Chiles waives aside Mr. Banks' contention. "This is the last resort of desperation," he said.

"Judge Palmer evidently was satisfied that every juror trying Leonard Imboden and James Hill was competent," continued Mr. Chiles, "and the defense is resorting to any subterfuge possible."

CONFIRMATION IS WITHHELD

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST NEW APPOINTED SECRETARY FOR NEW MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Charges against James W. Raynolds, renominated by the president as secretary for New Mexico, were considered by the senate committee on territories today and the confirmation will be held up until they can be investigated.

He is charged with being an offensive partisan, which did not have any effect on the committee. Former Delegate Rodey charged him with bulldozing the delegates of the last territorial convention in order to accomplish the defeat of Rodey for renomination.

The serious charges against Raynolds are that when acting as governor he pardoned notorious criminals for political effect; that he had managed the office so as to secure large fees, and that he and former Governor Otero had by some unfair means procured lands eight miles wide on either side of an important stream, which they use for a sheep ranch. The statehood fight enters into the matter to some extent. Raynolds is opposed by the faction which is seeking joint statehood with Arizona.

FIRE DESTROYS PANAMA HOMES

STARTED THROUGH CARELESSNESS OF EMPLOYES OF SANITARY DEPARTMENT WHO WERE FUMIGATING.

PANAMA, Jan. 12.—At about 12:30 p. m. today the biggest fire which has occurred here in three years started on Mchambo street, but was practically under control at 2 p. m., after burning two blocks inhabited by the poorer classes. There is much indignation against the sanitary department owing to the fact that according to current reports the fire was caused by the carelessness of employes of that department in fumigating the houses where the flames started. The buildings burned include two public schools and an orphan asylum.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied. Wasted to a Skeleton. Awful Suffering for Over a Year. Grew Worse Under Doctors—Skin Now Clear.

WOULD HAVE DIED BUT FOR CUTICURA.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores break out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he was so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh.

"He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My Aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Soap to try and a little of the Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little.

"I went to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He never had any sore of any kind since.

"He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

CITY WILL SPEND $10,000 TO SECURE MORE WATER RIGHTS

needed the additional water in later years, it would find there was none to be had. Mr. McAllister read a list of the options that had been secured on behalf of this city, but he did not deem it necessary to buy all.

Mr. Howbert's Remarks.

Irving Howbert reviewed city water matters, beginning with the first water right purchased by the city on Beaver creek. He referred to the suit that had been carried to the supreme court wherein that court upheld the right of this city to divert water from the western slope to the eastern slope of the mountain, provided that other rights benefited by seepage were not injured by such diversion. This city had initiated the storage system in this region and had priority. Certainly there could arise no question with reference to seepage, as the large reservoirs constructed by this city gave as much and probably more seepage than would otherwise enter the stream. Mr. Howbert believed it would be well for the city to spend $10,000 in securing more water rights at this time if for no other season than that of additional protection.

H. A. Wattson, a former alderman of the city council, believed the suggestion of Mr. Howbert to be wise, but he advised the council to make sure of what it was buying.

W. S. Jackson advised the council that the property owners of the city would back the council in doing anything it could toward securing additional water for the city, because the growth of the city is limited only by its water supply. Mr. Jackson said that former councils had shown rare foresight in the rights which the city now possessed, and the citizens owed them a debt of gratitude. If the position of this city can be strengthened by securing additional water rights, by all means buy them, and the property owners would support them even to the voting of bonds to carry out their plans."

Various Opinions.

The Rev. E. E. Carrington could not understand the necessity for buying additional water rights unless as a matter of protection, and asked for further information upon the matter.

Former Mayor W. M. Strickler discussed the matter from a similar standpoint, and Prof. Wm. Strieby also asked for further information, all of which was given by Attorney McAllister.

A letter from Attorney G. M. Edmondson favoring a water board of three members to control the water department in all respects except in the expenditure of money, was presented and read, and received with approval.

W. A. Otis believed the question to be a purely legal one, and should be left for the city council and its legal advisers to act as is deemed best in the interest of the city.

Attorney J. K. Vanatta favored the purchase of more water rights if the water could be delivered, but did not believe in spending money if no good could be accomplished.

Attorney J. A. Orr believed in protecting what the city already has and as the question appears to be purely a legal one he agreed with Mr. Otis that the matter be left to the council and its legal advisers.

The council then went into executive session and upon reconvening, a motion made by Alderman Seldomridge was carried that the council appoint a committee of five composed of Aldermen Tucker, Seldomridge, Hosman, Hill, Albin and Varner, to visit and inspect the Bean and Height ranches, and that the council resolve to purchase them and the water rights belonging to them, subject to the approval of the committee, according to the terms of the options now held by the city.

The committee will leave for Florence this afternoon and will drive out to the ranches tomorrow. Prof. Carpenter was invited to accompany the committee, and he accepted the invitation.

At last Something New under the Sun and Its in the Window at 212 North Tejon

Solomon said there was nothing new under the sun, but Solomon has been dead a long while and the statement has been refuted. The denial is on display in the window of the Brown Wallpaper & Paint Co., at 212 North Tejon street, and many thousands of people each day the past week have been enjoying the pretty display that is the first demonstration of the kind that has even been given.

The sight that has been attracting the people and called forth many compliments has been the demonstration of the new preparation known as "China-Lac," that Mr. W. W. Walton, the western representative of the Patterson-Sargent Co. has been making, and which will be in the window the balance of the week.

The window is most prettily decorated with dainty Chinese trappings and a very comely little miss. Miss Majaska by name, is demonstrating what one and two coats of "China-Lac" will do for various articles in the way of giving them the various colors and varnishing them at the same time. Miss Majaska is attired in a beautiful silk Chinese costume, has her hair dressed Chinese fashion and amid her Oriental surroundings, deftly demonstrates the new varnish-stain and tells the observers by card the extraordinary qualities of the new "China-Lac."

This is the first demonstration of a similar article ever given and Colorado Springs is the first city in which it is done, as well as the Brown Wallpaper & Paint Company being the first firm to secure this new and excellent method of advertising a useful article to every housewife.

Mr. Walton, the western manager, is a hustler and his display is one of the most unique as well as one of the best ever seen in the Sunshine City. No one should fail to see the pretty Oriental window and the pretty little miss at work in full view of the passer-by.

KEEP THE BABY'S THUMB OUT OF HIS MOUTH

The habit many mothers let their children get into of sucking their thumbs or fists, or of constantly keeping a consoler of the little fellow's mouth to keep him quiet is a mistake. It tends to make the teeth grow in crooked, disfigures the shape of the mouth and changes the contour of the face. There is no reason why anyone's teeth should be crooked and ugly with the skill of the modern dentist, and to insure the baby's tooth health the little one should be brought to a reliable dentist for examination when about four years of age, whether it is apparent he needs it or not. We are particularly careful with the little people. Dr. Shaw, Dental Surgeon, Barnes Building, 112 Pike's Peak ave. Phone 918B. Hours, 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Evenings, 7 to 8. Sundays, 9 to 12.

TESTIMONY IN ZOBRIST CASE

SIX WITNESSES EXAMINED YESTERDAY—DEFENDANT HAD CONVENIENT CABINET IN DRUG STORE.

Six witnesses for the city were examined in the county court yesterday during the trial of the case of the City of Colorado Springs vs. Charles L. Zobrist, charged with violating the liquor ordinances by selling intoxicating liquor in less quantity than one quart on July 1, 1905. The city had not concluded its case when court adjourned until today.

J. J. Fitzgerald testified that he purchased one-half pint of whisky from Zobrist on the night of July 1, 1905, paying 25 cents for the bottle. The bottle was already filled and wrapped up when he called for it, and was taken from a cabinet standing in the store. The cabinet was presented in evidence together with its contents, a number of small bottles of liquor, and was identified by the witness.

J. R. Depp testified to having searched Fitzgerald before the latter entered the store and he had no bottle upon his person. When Fitzgerald left the store the witness again searched him and found the bottle of liquor that was presented in evidence.

Howell and Riggs, two students, testified that they were at the soda fountain and witnessed the sale of the bottle of liquor by Zobrist to Fitzgerald.

A. F. Threikeld, former city detective, testified to taking possession of the cabinet containing numerous small bottles of liquor by direction of Chief Adams.

The bottle of liquor purchased by Fitzgerald was unsealed in court in the presence of the jury and a sample of it given to Dr. Martin, city chemist, for analysis. Dr. Martin testified that the analysis showed the liquor to contain 41 2-10 per cent alcohol, 2-10 per cent solids, and 58 6-10 per cent water. It contained sufficient alcohol to be classed as an intoxicating and spirituous liquor within the meaning of the law.

City Attorney W. C. Robinson is prosecuting the case for the city and Attorney S. H. Kinsley is representing the defendant.

The complaint alleges that while in the employ of the defendant on the day in question, the plaintiff was ordered to ride the horse by the owner, knowing that the animal was a fractious and vicious horse. "Uncle Josh Spruceby," the best of the many rural plays now being presented in the different cities, will be seen at the Opera house today for two performances afternoon matinee 2:30 and evening. This production is said to be different from all others as it contains much comedy as well as pathos, and the realistic saw mill scene is said to be the most exciting and intense effect ever produced. The scenes of the play are laid in Vermont and New York, which gives ample opportunity for portraying the simple rustic characters in country as well as the many incidents that befall simple country folk who visit the metropolis.

The old fashioned "husking bee" with its country dance and harvest festivities occupies one act of "Uncle Josh Spruceby," the New England comedy drama. The scene is laid in "Uncle Josh's barn on the old Vermont farm. The heaps of yellow corn, the stacks of golden pumpkins, the mows stuffed to bursting with hay and fodder all proclaim that the harvest is over and the farmer's work is done. The country maidens dressed in their best, with shining eyes and ruddy cheeks, husk corn beside the rural swains togged in their "Sunday best." Now and then a red ear is found. A kiss—the usual price—demanded and given with a show of reluctance on the part of "Samantha" that would do credit to a city belle. After the husking comes the supper and dance, which is kept up until the jingling sleigh bells at the door proclaim the time to depart.

MURRAY AND MACK IN "AROUND THE TOWN."

Our old friends, Murray and Mack, are again headed this way and will be with us next Tuesday evening at the Opera house, when they promise a brand new comedy of the distinctly Murray and Mack brand. Murray and Mack have been recognized for a good many years as leaders of this style of comedy and are always welcome. They are carrying a good sized company this year and promise a wealth of costume and scenery. The new piece is as full of humor and good wholesome fun as a shad is of bones, and local admirers of this popular team can confidently look forward to an evening of genuine merriment. They promise many new things this season in the way of musical numbers and specialties.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY

Colorado Springs People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Colorado Springs testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Colorado Springs who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Let any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Colorado Springs people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Colorado Springs case.

C. S. Keep, Associated Press at the Gazette office, residence 1611 North Royer avenue, says: "In the month of June, 1899, I stated through the Gazette that long before I came to Colorado Springs I knew all about Doan's Kidney Pills in the state of Massachusetts, where they are considered a household remedy. I used them several years ago for a lame and aching back which was not severe enough to lay me off work, but sufficient to cause me a considerable amount of discomfort. Since then I have used them on several occasions when symptoms of recurrences made themselves manifest. Two or three days' treatment is all that is required to ward off what might be a serious attack. Doan's Kidney Pills are one remedy which acts fully up to the representations made for it and I cheerfully re-indorse the statement I made over three years ago."

Plenty more proof like this from Colorado Springs people. Call at D. T. Butcher Drug Co.'s store and ask what their customers report.

THE STATEHOOD FIGHT.

ABOUT two months ago Senator Beveridge was cock-sure that his bill providing for the admission of the four territories as two states would be passed soon after the opening of Congress. Now it is generally admitted that the measure has only a very slight chance of getting through. The able generalship of Senator Foraker in the Senate and Representative Babcock in the House has shattered the hopes of Beveridge and Hamilton, and increased the probability that Arizona and New Mexico at least, will not be forced into the Union as one state.

On Wednesday of this week Representative Babcock circulated a paper to which he secured the signatures of forty-seven Republican Representatives who thereby pledged themselves "to oppose and vote against the adoption of the rule during the present session of Congress for the consideration of any bill providing for joint statehood for the territories of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, and Arizona and New Mexico, which does not provide for reasonable time for debate and opportunity for a separate vote on two propositions, or for amendments." The next day three more signatures were obtained. This means that the Hamilton bill will not be brought without amendment, despite the pleadings of Speaker Cannon. It is claimed that sixty signatures to this document can be secured, and there are ten other members who will not sign, but who have promised to vote with the opposition. With a full House only fifty-six Republican votes are needed to beat the rule, and the insurgents have the added advantage that their count represents members actually present, while the forces supporting the Hamilton bill have to count absentees.

There is almost no opposition in Congress to joint statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, and if a separate bill providing for their admission should be introduced it would pass without the slightest delay. But Congress as well as the country has had time to study the Arizona-New Mexico question, and the more thorough the study the firmer the conviction that it will never do to force these two territories into the Union as one state. The plain fact is that neither of them is at present in any way fitted for statehood, and the people of both territories are strongly opposed to the jointure. There is just now a great deal of wild talk in the southwest territories of the violent measures to be resorted to in case Congress defies the wishes of the population, but these measures are not likely ever to be employed, for every day the chances of the Beveridge-Hamilton bill become smaller.

The regrettable feature of the case is that Oklahoma and Indian Territory are liable to be lost in the shuffle incident to the rejection of the omnibus bill. It is unjust and unfortunate that these two territories, whose claims are indisputable, should be compelled to suffer a delay of several years merely because the politicians insist on linking their destinies with those of two other territories with which Oklahoma and Indian Territory have nothing whatever in common. Judging by what occurred in the last session of Congress, there is very small chance for these two territories at the present session unless their case is considered separate from that of Arizona and New Mexico.

THE DEWEY'S VOYAGE.

THE HUGE floating drydock Dewey, now on her way from the Patuxent River to the Philippines, is proving herself a thoroughly seaworthy craft. Dispatches from Norfolk, Va., announce that word received from the naval fleet which is towing the drydock tell of her satisfactory behavior in a storm off Cape Hatteras, and any ship or drydock or other object built to float which can weather a Cape Hatteras storm deserves to be marked O K without further inquiry.

There certainly never was a stranger thing seen on the waters than the Dewey as she will appear to passing vessels. A big red box of steel, 500 feet long, 134 feet wide, and towering forty-two feet above the water with straight sides and square corners, towed by three or four vessels with gigantic cables so long that there appears to be no connection between the tugs and the dock—that's the way the Dewey will look to the ships that encounter her on the high seas. In the construction of this strange craft 11,000 tons of steel, 2,000,000 rivets and 130 tons of paint were used. The cost was $1,250,000, and she is not only the biggest floating drydock in the world, but so big that the largest and heaviest warship in existence could be placed in her and lifted high and dry above the water. The capacity of the Dewey is 20,000 tons, but the largest warship yet projected is only 18,000 tons.

If this drydock makes the voyage to Manila in safety the United States will then be prepared for any contingency which may arise in time of war. Under present conditions our warships in the Far East dock at Hongkong or Shanghai, but if war should arise between America and any other nation these ports would be closed to American ships. It was to guard against the dangers to which we would thus be exposed that the Government ordered the construction of the Dewey. The distance, 14,000 miles is much longer than a floating dock has ever before been towed, but the immense size of the thing is an element of safety, and naval officials consider that there is less risk in the undertaking than would appear at first thought.

THE CZAR'S AUTOCRATIC POWERS

THE NOVOE VREMYA, one of the most influential newspapers of St. Petersburg, prints an article purporting to be an expression of Count Witte's views as to the position of the Czar in relation to his people, which is likely to attract wide spread attention. According to the Novoe Vremya the premier declared to a delegation headed by the mayor of St. Petersburg that the Czar had not abrogated autocratic power, and could still by an imperial manifesto broaden, abridge, or even abolish the rights granted to the people. But following the publication of this statement comes a denial from one of Witte's subordinates that he had been correctly quoted. The premier, it was asserted, said that the emperor's title of autocrat remained, pointing out that it originated when Muscovy was freed from the yoke of the Tartars and Mongols, which only indicated independence of foreign control, and not unlimited power over his subjects.

Perhaps if the Russian people decide to permit the present Czar and his successors of the Romanoff family to remain as titular heads of the government, they will be perfectly willing to allow also the use of the title, "autocrat of all the Russias," for it is at most an empty phrase. It is like some of the other high-sounding titles affected by sovereigns of European countries—mere relic of bygone power and splendor. But there is a distinction to be made in the case of the Czar of Russia. In all other countries power has gradually slipped from the hands of the sovereign into those of the people. This has happened notably in England, France and Germany. But in Russia the despotic rule once exercised by the Czar has been taken away from him little by little, by his kinsmen and his ministers. The people have gained nothing. So far as they are concerned, they are as completely subject to autocratic rule as they were in the days of Peter the Great, who was in himself the Russian government. If there has been a change in their status at all it has merely been a case of out of the frying pan into the fire, for whereas, if the Czar had at all times been a real autocrat the people would have profited by the chance that some time he would be a man of just and benevolent character. But the court clique which for hundreds of years has actually ruled Russia has never been liberal; it has stood at all times for the severest repression, and thus, while the nominal ruler has really ceased to rule, the people have gained nothing by his virtual deposition.

Even if Nicholas were so disposed, he would not dare to attempt to regain the power which he recently renounced, for to do so would be to destroy the last vestige of popular confidence in his sincerity. This power, as is here pointed out, did not belong to him but to the bureaucracy, and it would be they rather than he who would wish to again assume it. But conditions in Russia are such that if the reactionary forces surrounding the Czar should gain his ear and induce him to revoke his manifesto of October 30, the effort would surely fail. The moderate conservatives whom Witte has won over to his support would desert him, and the liberals, who are beginning to trust the premier, would at once join hands with the extreme revolutionaries. The Czar is so prone to vacillation that there is no telling what he may desire to do, but it is certain that Witte and the other strong men who are now most in his confidence would never permit him to attempt such a foolhardy thing as the reassertion of his "autocratic" power.

The only remarkable thing in the Poultney Bigelow incident is that the President and Secretary Taft should dignify Bigelow's charges by answering them. A man who has earned a reputation on both sides of the Atlantic as a chronic kicker and malcontent doesn't deserve the consideration accorded Bigelow in this incident.

It is said that one million women have signed the petition asking for the expulsion of Smoot from the Senate. That ought to be enough to settle Smoot, but unfortunately, the Senate has a habit of pigeon-holing petitions and then forgetting about them.

Count Witte says the Czar still retains his autocratic powers. Bah! The Czar has never really had any autocratic powers. The despotic sway which he affects to wield is and always has been exercised by his ministers and relatives.

Senator Tillman walked up to Senators Spooner and La Follette the other day and asked them which was going to hit the other over the head first. Tillman is such a clever fellow; always says the right thing at the right time.

Santos-Dumont says the report that he will accompany Wellman's airship expedition in search of the Pole is untrue. Santos may like to go up in the air once in a while, but he wants to be sure of the place where he alights.

The present political campaign in England seems to be a cross between a Donnybrook ruction and a Democratic rally in Arkansas. Even the staid Britishers are learning to take their politics with a dash of tabasco.

If the Russian revolutionists celebrate the anniversary of "Red Sunday" as per schedule, General Trepoff, the new military commander of St. Petersburg, may find it necessary to hikeski.

About the most fortunate thing that can happen to a Russian nowadays is to be exiled to Siberia. There he is at least safe from the danger of being shot down in the street by Cossacks.

Champ Clark's statement that Bryan is the greatest living American is rather startling. We always supposed that Champ regarded himself as entitled to that distinction.

Willie Wallie Astor is to be made an English peer. Thank heaven! Now maybe he will stay away from this country entirely.

An English critic says Mark Twain's humor is harmful. But what right has an English critic to discuss humor?

Why on earth doesn't Senator La Follette open up on the railroads and relieve this terrible suspense?

Governor Brady says the great need of Alaska is more wives. Can't Utah be of some service?

LIEUT. PIKE'S DIARY

For One Hundred Years Ago Today

Monday, 13th January, 1806. After encountering much difficulty, we arrived at the establishment of the North-West Company on Sandy Lake a little before night. The ice being very bad on the lake (this owing to the many springs and marshes in the neighborhood) one sledge fell through. My men had all excellent rounds finished them and were presented with potatoes and milk. Mr. Grant had gone to an Indian lodge to receive his credits.

MILLIONS AND MISERY.

Charles T. Yerkes died a very wealthy man. His fortune is estimated at fully $100,000. It may have been much larger. His income was greater than he could spend even with fantastic extravagance. He had reached a point in his business career despite the handicap of his early reverses and conviction of sinning, from which he commanded a wide influence and wielded an immense power.

Yet he died miserably alone, in a public hotel, with scandals gathering fast about his name. His body was packed into a clothes hamper and hustled out of the hotel to the magnificent mansion which he had not entered for three years. The funeral was hastened and the interment was painfully hurried, with a grievous anxiety on the part of all the members of his family to have the process of interment completed with the least possible delay.

What an end for a man with the ability sufficient to score the mark which this man made in the world! His life was checkered from first to last. He had proven unfaithful to two wives, and his widow was to have been soon divorced had not death intervened. Two women have already been mentioned as having illicitly entered his life. The very name of Yerkes had begun to savor of vice, as it once did of crime.

Was this man happy in his life? It is hardly to be believed. He may have had a certain satisfaction in reflection that he had pulled himself up from a shameful position as an ex-convict to the rank of a great creator of useful works. He did unquestionably contribute to the convenience of men. He was a worker, a producer, a master of finance and industry. Yet he was pitifully lacking in the first element of true greatness, a moral sense, and it was this lack that finally shadowed his deathbed and which has cast the gloom of misery over his interment.

Yerkes' millions seemed to have been charged with evil force from the beginnings. They first led him into crooked ways and into the penitentiary. They then led him into rascality of another kind, even while he was erecting a monument to himself that, with all his failings, will remain as such through many years.

Yerkes might have been infinitely more [illegible] his profit had he had been straight and moral. It bespeaks the fundamental soundness of our conscience in this country that there was no place for him here after he had left prison, and his subsequent social conduct amply proved the righteousness of the American judgment of the man. He was essentially wrong in his concept of life, and all his millions could not cure the fault, nor will all his benefactions, his gifts to institutions, his contributions to American art, wipe away the pitiful memory of his last days and his hasty burial.—Washington Star.

MORE PAY FOR POSTAL CLERKS.

The postal service is costing about $165,000,000 a year. At the present rate of increase in five years it will far exceed $200,000,000. A few classes of mail matter pay one-fifth the cost of handling. If all paid a proper amount there would be no deficit, and there would be more employes, and they would be decently paid. The salaries now fixed are essentially those of a generation ago, when the cost of living was much less. Congress ought to be just even if it has a disposition to be generous.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

OUR DWINDLING PROPERTY IN LAND.

There appears to be grave need of a complete overhauling of our national laws covering the disposal of the lands which belong to the whole people. Setting altogether aside the criminal and quasi-criminal land operations which under Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock's persistent investigations and prosecutions have already resulted disastrously to some of those implicated, a glance at conditions revealed in publicly reported facts and figures indicates the necessity for amending the laws.

The people are all equally owners of these lands and it is to their interest that when they pass out of public ownership it shall be primarily for the purpose of being devoted to the making of homes and adding to the productive power of the nation. It is a commonplace truth that we have been too much in the habit of regarding the public stock of lands as inexhaustible. It is beginning to appear that the end is within sight.—Chicago Chronicle.

SECRET RETAINERS.

Lobbying is a legitimate business if legitimately conducted. There is no reason why a lawyer should not appear before a legislative committee or present arguments to individual lawmakers in behalf of a client interested in a pending measure, provided he does it openly and confines himself to the proper use of his persuasive powers. Evidence taken before the Armstrong committee has shown, however, that many members of the bar by no means thus limit the scope of their activities. Instance after instance has been brought to attention of the employment of lawyers under secret retainers to serve interests to which they apparently owed no allegiance. Gentlemen, under the guise of disinterested citizens, wrote articles and appeared before committees in the endeavor to manifest an apparent weight of public opinion with reference to certain subjects, when they were really paid agents trying to advance the interests of an employer. Such methods are a fraud upon the legislature and upon the public, and they are a discredit to the legal profession.—New York Tribune.

Near to Nature

SOMETHING DOING, SURE.

HORSE HAS A FINE PRACTICE.

Dr. L. M. Klutz, Clinton's popular veterinary surgeon, never forgets to keep the Eye marked ahead and Thursday up he came and had the date set up a year. He has a fine practice, which is constantly growing better.—Clinton (Mo.) Eye.

OBITUARY POETRY FROM THE CLINTON (MO.) EYE.

We have lost our darling Opal.
She has bid us all adieu.
The crib is empty, the clothes laid by.
She has gone to live in heaven.
Her sweet little face is lost from view.
How we loved our darling.
And oh, how hard to give her up.
But an angel came and removed her from her home.
So sleep on sweet babe and take thy rest
God has called thee home, he thought it best.

A FRIEND.

Death of Benedict Arnold

The Last Scene in a Great American Tragedy.

By George Lippard.

FIFTY years ago, in a rude garret, near the loneliest suburbs of the city of London, lay a dying man. He was but half dressed, though his legs were concealed in long military boots. An aged minister stood beside the rough couch. His form was that of a strong man grown old through care more than age. There was a face that you might look upon but once, and yet wear it in your memory forever.

Let us bend over the bed and look upon that face. A bold forehead seamed by one deep wrinkle visible between the brows; long locks of dark hair, sprinkled with gray; lips firmly set, yet quivering as though they had a life separate from the life of the man, and then two large eyes—vivid, burning, unnatural in their steady glare. Ay, there was something terrible in that face, something so full of unnatural loneliness, unspeakable despair, that the aged minister started back in horror. But look! those strong arms are clutching at the vacant air, the death sweat stands in drops on that bold brow—the man is dying. Throb, throb, throb, beats the death watch in the shattered wall. "Would you die in the faith of the Christian?" faltered the preacher, as he knelt there on the damp floor.

The white lips of the death-stricken man trembled, but made no sound. Then, with the strong agony of death upon him, he rose into a sitting posture. For the first time he spoke. "Christian?" he echoed in that deep tone which thrilled the preacher to the heart. "Will that faith give me back my honor? Come with me, old man, come with me far over the waters. Ha! we are there! This is my native town. Yonder is the church in which I knelt in childhood, yonder the green on which I sported when a boy. But another flag waves yonder in place of the flag that waved when I was a child.

"And, listen, old man; were I to pass along the streets, as I passed when but a child, the very babes in their cradles would raise their tiny hands and curse me! The [illegible] would shrink from my footsteps; and yonder flag would rain a baptism of blood upon my head!"

That was an awful deathbed. The minister had watched "the last night" with a hundred convicts in their cells, but had never beheld a scene so terrible as this. Suddenly the dying man arose; he tottered along the floor. With those white fingers, whose nails were blue with the death chill, he threw open a valise. He drew from thence a faded coat of blue, faced with silver, and the wreck of a battered flag.

"Look ye, priest! This faded coat is spotted with my blood!" he cried, as old memories seemed stirring at his heart. "This coat I wore when I first heard the news of Lexington; this coat I wore when I planted the banner of the stars on Ticonderoga; that bullet hole was pierced in the flight of Quebec; and now I am a—let me whisper it in your ear!" He hissed that single burning word into the minister's ear. "Now help me, priest! Help me to put on this coat of blue, for you see"—and a ghastly smile came over his face—"there is no one here to wipe the cold drops from my brow; no wife, no child. I must meet death alone; but I will meet him, as I have met him in battle, without a fear!"

While he stood arraying his limbs in that worm eaten coat of blue and silver the good minister spoke to him of the faith of Jesus. Yes, of that great faith, which pierces the clouds of human guilt and rolls them back from the face of God. "Faith!" echoed that strange man, who stood there, erect, with the death chill on his brow. "faith! Can it give me back my honor? Look ye, priest! there, over the waves, sits George Washington, telling to his comrades the pleasant story of the eight years' war; there, in his royal palace halls, sits George of England, bewailing, in his idiotic voice, the loss of his colonies! and here am I—I who was the first to raise the flag of freedom, the first to strike a blow against that king—here am I, dying! oh, dying like a dog!"

The awestricken preacher started back from the look of the dying man, while throb, throb, throb, beats the death watch, in the shattered wall: "Hush, silence along the lines there!" he muttered in that wild, absent tone, as though speaking to the dead; "silence along the lines! not a word—not a word, on peril of your lives! Hark, you, Montgomery! we will meet in the center of the town; we will meet there in victory, or die! Hist! silence, my men—not a whisper, as we move up those steep rocks! Now on, my boys—now on! Men of the wilderness, we will gain the town! Now up with the banner of the stars—up with the flag of freedom, though the night is dark, and the snow falls! Now! now, one more blow, and Quebec is ours!"

And look! His eye grows glassy. With that word on his lips he stands there—ah, what a hideous picture of despair, erect, livid, ghastly! There for a moment and then he falls—he is dead! Ah, look at that proud form thrown cold and stiff upon the damp floor! In that glassy eye there lingers, even yet, a horrible energy, a sublimity of despair. Who is this strange man lying here alone in this rude garret, this man, who, in all his crimes, still treasured up that blue uniform, that faded flag? Who is this being of horrible remorse—this man, whose memories seem to link something with heaven, and more with hell?

Let us look at that parchment and flag. The aged minister unrolls that faded flag; it is a blue banner gleaming with 13 stars! He unrolls that parchment; it is a colonel's commission in the Continental army, addressed to Benedict Arnold! And there, in that rude hut, while the death watch throbbed like a heart in the shattered wall; there, unknown, unwept, in all the bitterness of desolation, lay the corse of the patriot and the traitor!

O, that our own true Washington had been there to sever that good right arm from the corse, and while the dishonored body rotted into dust, to bring that noble arm and enshrine it among the holiest memories of the past! For that right arm struck many a gallant blow for freedom. Yonder at Ticonderoga, at Quebec, Champlain and Saratoga that arm, wonder, beneath the snow of the White mountains, in the deep silence of the river of the dead, first raised into light the Banner of the Stars!

ROGERS SHUNS PUBLICITY.

If Mr. Rogers refusal to answer the questions put to him by the insurance commissioner of Missouri is not necessary, it is unwise. For it tends to confirm the existing public impression that the Standard Oil company is a concern devoted to the attainment of unlawful ends by secret, dark, and midnight ways. If Mr. Rogers' refusal is necessary, then it must create an exceedingly strong impression that the case of the state of Missouri against the trust is well founded. Each horn of the dilemma is sharp and has its special discomforts for Mr. Rogers.

The state of Missouri, intending to proceed against the Standard Oil company under the anti-trust laws, seeks to prove that the Waters-Pierce Oil company, the Republic Oil company, the International Oil company and H. A. Williamson & Co., carrying on the oil-refining business within the boundaries of the state, are really subsidiary corporations of the Standard Oil company, to which the greater part of their dividends is paid. Mr. Rogers refuses to answer the questions by which the commissioner seeks to establish the Standard's relation of ownership and control of these Missouri concerns. He bases his refusal upon what he calls personal reasons and the advice of counsel. Commissioner Sanborn and Attorney General Hadley insist that in law these are no reasons at all. They will cause the questions to be certified to the supreme court in order that they may get a ruling whether they must be answered. It is the evident intent of these gentlemen from Missouri to keep at Mr. Rogers until they extract from him the answers they require, or else visit upon him the pains and discomforts incident to contempt of court. If in the end Mr. Rogers is compelled to make answer, the general opinion, we presume, will be that it would have been wiser to answer in the first place.

Nobody but Mr. Rogers and his associates can tell just how far the Standard Oil company can go in answering questions of this sort. There are matters about which we presume Mr. Rogers thinks the less said the better. The Standard Oil company carries on a roaring big trade, but it is not given to ostentatious publicity about its affairs and its ways of doing business quite the contrary. That is the point of the Missouri proceeding. An unaffected humility of bearing and voluble frankness in answering all of Commissioner Sanborn's questions would undoubtedly have put Mr. Rogers and the Standard Oil company in a somewhat better light before the public. But his replies to the commissioner's questions might have proved that the Missouri companies were owned and controlled by the Standard, that they were operating in violation of the anti-trust laws of Missouri, and that the pretense of competition which they maintain is false and delusive. In that case the Standard might have lost its Missouri business.

Fighting the Standard Oil company is always highly popular, and we presume Gov. Folk and Attorney General Hadley will gain in reputation and political favor if they win their case, or even if they do not win it. An assault upon a trust, even if it fails, proves that the assailant is a friend of the people, and that counts for a good deal out west. What the people of the state of Missouri will gain by driving the Standard Oil company beyond their boundaries has not yet been made so clear as to be readily apprehended. Mr. Hadley says that independent refineries will spring up. The state refinery experiment in Kansas was a failure. The legislature of that state appropriated $100,000 to set up a state refinery. The supreme court declared the act unconstitutional. If independent refineries should be established in Missouri the Standard, through the control of pipe lines and otherwise, might be in a position to harass and baffle them in their attempts to give the people cheap illuminating oil.

If the Standard can really supply oil to consumers at prices lower than independent concerns it is not easy to understand why it should not carry on its business in compliance with the law instead of in defiance thereof. The trumpery device of maintaining half a dozen companies under the thin disguise of a pretended competition is outworn and childish. It is childish too to obstruct a legal inquiry by demanding that questions and answers be taken down in longhand. There is, of course, depth on depth of mystery in Standard Oil management, but it does seem that a business so vast and profitable might be carried on with a decent regard for public opinion. The United States Steel corporation makes public reports of its business. It has not suffered by that policy—it has gained visibly and in a high degree. If the Standard Oil company's secret ways conceal illicit practices they ought to be stopped. Sooner or later legislatures, prosecuting officers, and the courts will find a way to stop them. The American public dislikes secrecy and subterranean methods in corporation management. That dislike is increased by such tactics as Mr. Rogers has employed. It is strange that men having the extraordinary business capacities of the Standard oil group should lack the wisdom to comply voluntarily with the modern and growing demand for a fuller knowledge of what they are doing and how they do it.—New York Times.

SHALL WE KILL DERELICTS?

Surely no man in any age since that of Sparta has ever spoken so frankly on the subject of death as Dr. Charles Eliot Norton, a relative of the president of Harvard university and formerly one of the leading members of its staff. He talks like a Greek and not like a human being. In effect he says that doctors and friends and children should combine together and get rid of the useless, the incurable and the derelict. This is not a mere theory with him. He would like to see it put in practice. There are too many cumberers of the ground, and they should be laid away in swift fashion.

This sort of philosophy is of the kind that cannot be in any respect personal. We can all say that the person dying of cancer ought to have a dose of chloroform, but who is to give the dose? We may think that there are thousands of persons mumbling their gums in wretchedness and disease who ought to be buried. Who is to give the final dispatch? It is all very well for Dr. Norton to talk in this way so long as he deals in abstractions, but we fancy that he would be the last to accept the office of public executioner. Yet, it is certain that if his philosophy is to prevail, some one must have the responsibility, and certainly its highest exponent ought to be the man.

We know so little about life in its origin, we have such varied views of the actual responsibilities of the human being, and there is such a wide difference of opinion as to the exact future status of the human soul that it is impossible to expect a sentimental and loving race of men and women to provide for the removal of those who seem to have outlived their usefulness. The law makes suicide a crime, or, at least, the attempt to commit suicide. Yet, if life is useless, who is more competent to do away with it than the individual concerned? If life is a purely personal possession, why not let any man dispose of it as he desires? We would not agree to any such proposition.

Furthermore, although we must admit that there are many persons who would, according to our knowledge, be better dead than alive, it is probably not within human wisdom to take such a decision. If we should give even to a set of men, such as Dr. Norton, the power to decide, many mistakes would be made. As a fact, the verdict would have to rest with those less competent. We cannot admit of any such theory. Physicians and loved ones must care for the living until the last, and it seems certain that even if the prolongation of life seems useless or painful to the victims, it does have a reflex influence upon the living of the first importance. Let us have no ethical or other assassination except for crime committed.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

VALUABLE GARBAGE.

An illustration of what may be accomplished by business methods in the administration of a city's affairs is furnished (strange to say) by New York, where the plant for consuming combustible garbage is now utilized to drive steam engines that operate dynamos to run the electric lights on the famous Brooklyn bridge. It is a curious fact (growing largely out of the great growth of newspapers, which are thrown away after reading) that the combustibles gathered in any city are about sufficient to light the streets, if properly utilized. Besides newspapers, there are paper boxes and cardboard, and considerable old furniture, as well as loads of old barrels and broken boxes, and lumber waste from new buildings.

The total is enormous, and the day is not far distant when these natural wastes, instead of being a source of expense to a city in disposing of them, will pay for the gathering. In a few eastern cities it has been found practicable to gather the edible garbage and sell it to pig farms, at a price that nearly paid for the collection. Medical men testify that the pigs so fed are not harmed, but make good wholesome pork. It is also very possible that in many cases the ashes gathered could be worked up into concrete, for use in replacing and extending the streets and walks of a city. By such means as these coal wastes be utilized for the public good.

CORONER D. F. LAW CONDEMNS ABSURD THEORIES OF MURDER

Says That Work of the Chamber of Commerce Can Be Set at Naught in a Few Days by Sensational Murder Stories Published by Yellow Journals.

Dr. D. J. Scully, who was called to attend B. F. Schmidt, who dropped dead in the Antlers hotel, December 26, after walking to the hotel from the Denver & Rio Grande depot, said last evening, when interviewed in regard to the sensational charges from La Porte, Ind., that Schmidt was the victim of foul play: "I was called to the Antlers hotel on the night of December 26 to attend B. F. Schmidt and found him dead on my arrival. After examining him I made the statement that I was of the opinion that Schmidt had died of myocarditis, and I have no reason for changing that opinion."

Absurd Theories.

In speaking of the sensational reports, Coroner D. F. Law last night said: "I am not a physician myself, but I always call in a competent physician on such cases as that of B. F. Schmidt, and I think that our opinions are worth something. The idea that a man as heavy as Schmidt was held by the throat and clubbed in the face with a blunt instrument is absurd. The fact that he carried his suit case in one hand and a bundle of books in the other up a long flight of stairs and into the hotel lobby, after he had been beaten until he was within five minutes of death, disproves the murder theory. The fact that there was considerable money and valuables on him when he was removed to my office also proves that it was not a case of foul play."

"I am surprised at the Denver papers knocking this town, but when home papers do it I think it is time they were being called down."

The Wilson Suicide.

In speaking of the Wilson death, the coroner said: "I do not stand alone in my statement that E. Crane Wilson committed suicide. The sheriff's office investigated the case and pronounced it suicide. I do not see why that report is not accepted. Chief Adams of the police department still clings to the murder theory, as do some of his officers. I had six citizens of this county to decide the case. If Chief Adams knew anything about the case, or had any evidence, it was his place to go before the coroner's jury and tell them what he knew and not wait until after the verdict had been rendered and published to interview the newspapers and tell them that he believed Wilson was murdered. If Wilson was murdered, and the motive was robbery, I think a very poor job was done, as there was about $150 worth of jewelry on the person in plain sight when we brought his body to the office. I think the peace officers in this county are the best in the country.

"In every known murder case that has been committed in this county the officers have caught the murderers and made them stand trial, with the exception of the murderer of Bessie Boutor, and he only escaped by committing suicide. I do not know of a town that is more free from cut-throats and toughs than Colorado Springs."

Do Great Harm.

"If the papers keep on insisting that cases pronounced suicide by the coroner are murders, those papers will do more in one or two days to keep the people from coming here than the Chamber of Commerce can do in six months to get them to come to this city. I think it is about time they quit howling murder every time a man gets tired of life and takes a shot at himself."

Experience Is Sometimes a Dear Teacher.

So many parents of young children do not realize the danger from croup until they have had the experience of one severe case in their own home. To be awakened in the middle of the night by the peculiar croupy cough and find their little one suffering from a fully developed attack of the croup and nothing in the house with which to relieve it is a lesson never to be forgotten. A good remedy at hand is of incalculable value in a time like this and nothing better can be obtained than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has been thoroughly tested in hundreds of cases and not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear it will prevent the attack. The fact that this remedy contains no narcotics makes it perfectly safe to give to the children. For sale by all druggists.

HERMANN LUEDERS IS SAID TO BE DYING IN PUEBLO ASYLUM

News from Pueblo that Hermann Lueders, of Manitou, is sinking and is not expected to recover, was received in this city yesterday with deep regret. His wife and sons were advised by wire that Mr. Lueders was sinking rapidly and that if they hoped to see him alive they must hasten to his side. They left for Pueblo upon the first train.

When Mr. Lueders was decreed insane by Judge Kerr's probate court last week and sent to the asylum at Pueblo, it was with the hope that expert medical treatment and care would restore his body and mind to their wonted vigor. He seemed afflicted with a softening of the brain and had suffered from one or two sinking spells similar to that from which he is now suffering. His illness is regretted by the scores of friends made during his many years' residence at Manitou and his sixteen years of public service as secretary to the state board of capitol building managers.

DEDICATION OF ASBURY CHURCH IS POSTPONED

Members and friends of Asbury M. E. church will regret to learn that a delay in the shipment of pews and windows for the new edifice has necessitated a postponement of the dedication from tomorrow to February 4. By the new date everything will be in readiness and the original program will be made the order of the day. Following the dedication, a series of gospel meetings will be held, continuing through several weeks.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BEARD TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Beard who died yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock at her residence, 115 North Walnut street, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the undertaking rooms of Fairley Brothers & Law. The Rev. C. S. Wilcox will officiate at the services, which will be conducted by the Rebekah lodges. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Beard was 45 years of age and had lived in the city 15 years. She is survived by a mother, Mrs. Jane Patterson, three brothers, Former Alderman A. L. Patton of C. Patton, and F. W. Patton, and two sisters, Mrs. C. H. Hodges and Mrs. Emma Morris, all well known residents of Colorado Springs.

MORRISSEY IS COMING

HEAD OF RAILWAY TRAINMEN TO INVESTIGATE SHORT LINE DISPUTE.

ARBITRATION COMMITTEE OF THREE TO GO TO WORK IN THIS CITY NEXT WEDNESDAY.

P. H. Morrissey of Cleveland, O., grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and incidentally the boss prominent railway union man in the United States, will be in Colorado Springs Wednesday in connection with the arbitration of the grievances of the Short Line employes.

This announcement which was made unofficially yesterday, caused a stir in local railroad circles as it had not been thought that the Short Line matter was of enough importance to bring Mr. Morrissey to the west. Mr. Morrissey is at the head of more than 50,000 American trainmen and the fact that he will personally look into the matter shows that considerable importance is attached to the outcome.

It is rumored that the representatives of the four railroad orders who have been in conference with General Manager J. H. Waters for the last week have named Mr. Morrissey as their representative on the committee of three which is to arbitrate the matter. It is also understood that Mr. Waters has named a prominent Colorado & Southern official to represent the Short Line, and that these two will name the third member of the arbitration committee. This committee will meet here next Wednesday to hear the case. The fact that Mr. Morrissey and a prominent C. & S. official will be on this committee means that its deliberations will be watched by railroad men all over the country.

The four men who have been here in conference with Mr. Waters this week left yesterday for Denver to return Wednesday. Apartments for Mr. Morrissey and these four men have been reserved at the Alamo hotel.

SUSPICION OF HIS BEING IMPLICATED IN HOLD-UP ON VIADUCT

Edward Foley, a section hand who has been working on the Rock Island railroad, was taken before Justice O. R. Dunnington yesterday for trial upon a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Foley was arrested at the corner of Huerfano street and Cascade avenue late Thursday afternoon upon suspicion of being implicated in the hold-up on the viaduct Wednesday night. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriffs Alward, Scofield and Gillingham. When searched by the officers a 32-caliber revolver, fully loaded, was found in his possession, besides enough ammunition to reload the gun. A bottle of "white line," or diluted alcohol, was also found in his pockets. Justice Dunnington sentenced Foley to 30 days in the county jail upon the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and while the prisoner is serving his sentence, the officers will make a thorough investigation of his record.

"FRAT" QUESTION IS NOT DECIDED

MEMBERS OF "S. S. R." SOCIETY REFUSE TO ACCEPT TO WISHES OF SCHOOL AUTHORITIES.

The question of whether or not fraternities are to live among members of the Colorado Springs High school is still undecided. Principal J. R. Richards has decided that they must not live; certain students have decided that they can and will live.

It was learned yesterday that at the meeting of the fraternity men and Mr. Richards Wednesday afternoon, the latter asked the "frat" men if they were willing to "quit." The three members of the Adelphia Upsilon fraternity signified their willingness to give up their chapter, but the eight members of the S. S. R. fraternity told the principal that they were not willing to do so. It is understood that Mr. Richards told the recalcitrants that if they would not "quit" peacefully, he would compel them to resign.

The S. S. R. had a meeting last night to decide upon its future plans, but the members refused to give out any results of the meeting.

GUN CLUB SHOOT TODAY FOR GENTER TROPHY

The Colorado Springs Gun club will hold a regular shoot at the Broadmoor range this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and contest for the E. W. Genter trophy. All members of the club who have wins to their credit are urged to be present. The cup is a handsome silver one and is engraved with the names of those who have won it hitherto. The cup must be won three times to be held permanently. Those whose names appear on it now are W. G. Barnwall, A. J. Lawton, C. E. Bonday, H. C. Colburn, T. E. Curtin and A. J. Lawton. The shooting will be at sixteen yards rise, 50 targets, with 25 in deciding a tie.

MORE TROUBLE FOR PFAFFLIN

HIS REMOVAL OF COL. CASNER CHARGED TO SPITE WORK.

LOCAL COMPANY WILL INSIST ON A FAIR TRIAL OF FORMER COMMANDER

That Col. H. C. Casner will have a fair trial before the supreme assembly is the demand which the members of H. C. Casner company No. [illegible] and Pike's Peak company No. [illegible], uniform rank, Knights of Pythias, will make of Major General A. J. Stobbart. If the latter refuses to revoke his order suspending Brigadier General Pfafflin and his removing Col. Casner from command of the First regiment, the result will probably be the disorganization of the uniform rank in Colorado, and many of the First regiment.

Companies 2 and 10 will, under such circumstances, take the initiative in organizing an independent rank under a new name and with some change in the uniform. This will not affect the standing of the members on Pythias with their subordinate lodges. It will simply change the military feature from one of Pythianism under the supreme assembly to a new and independent order to meet the present emergency. If Col. Casner is granted a trial and is found guilty, that will end all controversy.

"We feel," said Captain Alex Reibsfield, "that Col. Casner is being treated unfairly because of the personal spite of Gen. Pfafflin, and that no charge has been preferred against Col. Casner, which would stand at an impartial trial. If Col. Casner is legally court martialed and is found guilty, we will submit, but as the matter now stands we will remain loyal to him to the end. It is no more fair for him to hold his office by reason of his removal to Greeley than it is for Gen. Pfafflin to place two companies of this territory in the Denver regiment. If Col. Casner is at fault in his removal to Greeley, Gen. Pfafflin is much more at fault in placing the company at Creede and the one at Cripple Creek in the Second regiment. If these companies have no right in the Second regiment they would make a total of nine companies for the first. General Pfafflin can not make divisional lines in the territory for Col. Casner and disregard them himself. As far as Col. Casner having failed to turn in the proper funds is concerned, the point is absurd. When No. 10 became a company of the First, instead of the Second regiment, Col. Casner properly turned in the funds of No. 10 to the First regiment."

Major A. C. Salisbury, of Aspen, Colo., has been ordered to take command of the First regiment as Col. Casner's relief, but he will be ignored by the local companies, nor will they pay any attention to the next per capita tax assessment if their demand for a trial for Col. Casner is ignored. They pay enough tax of this sort to equip themselves.

COMPANY IS FORMED TO BUILD LIME KILNS

Articles of incorporation of the United States Lime company, of which J. D. Hawkins is president, J. R. McKinnie, vice president and treasurer, and O. H. Shoup, secretary, were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday. The capital stock is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of a par value of $100 each. All the stock is owned by the above officers.

It is the intention of the company to build and operate lime kilns all over the country. The general offices of the company will be in this city.

Cured of Terrible Cough on Lungs.

N. Jackson of Danville, Ill., writes: "My daughter had a [illegible] attack of La Grippe and a terrible cough on her lungs. We tried a great many remedies without relief. She tried Foley's Honey and Tar which cured her. She has not been troubled with a cough since."

Consumption Cured.

Foley & Co., Chicago. Dana, Ind. Gentlemen.—Foley's Honey and Tar cured me of Consumption after I had suffered two years and was almost desperate. Three physicians failed to give me any relief and the last one said he could do me no good. I tried almost every medicine I heard tell of without benefit, until Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended to me. Its effect right from the start was magical. I improved steadily from the first dose and am now sound and well, and think Foley's Honey and Tar is a God-send to people with Throat and Lung Trouble. Yours very truly,
MRS. MARY A. DROSE.

IRREGULARITY CONTINUED UP TO THE CLOSE

BUOYANT SPECULATION ON NEW YORK MARKET—ROTATION OF DEMAND ADVANCES IMPORTANT STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—There was a very animated trading [illegible] today which fully justified the opinion [illegible] the stock market. The strength was equally and the low priced issues at times with an occasional moderate reaction. The [illegible] however, [illegible] practically all the important [illegible] form the [illegible] influences of the large [illegible] professional operators in the market.

There was no [illegible] to explain the [illegible] beyond a material increase [illegible] moderate pressure for [illegible] abroad which accompanied it. The disregard of the [illegible] developments was characteristic of a broad speculation. Special stress was laid upon the prospect of a very strong bank return tomorrow, the forecast of the [illegible] movement indicating a balance of receipts from the interior of upwards of $7,000,000.

Political feeling abroad was reported much more [illegible] than [illegible] coming Morocco conference. Discouragement in Paris, sterling advanced in Paris and Berlin, the price of gold was marked down in London and the Bank of England was able to secure offerings of gold in the open market.

In spite of the heavy replenishment of the local money market sterling exchange went no higher than yesterday.

Buoyancy of Great Northern preferred was a sustaining influence among the other Pacifics, especially Union Pacific, owing to its actual holdings of Great Northern stock. The approach of the Amalgamated Copper dividend period was the occasion for much gossip over the probable action.

The Gould group was devoid of any conclusive movement. The heavy profit-taking was not without effect on prices although the speculation became extremely animated again in the late trading, some of the prominent leaders being rushed to the top level of the day. Notwithstanding this strong demand there was some continued irregularity up to the close.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $4,170,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The wheat market opened firm with May [illegible] at [illegible] higher at [illegible] to [illegible] hour there was [illegible] by [illegible] and [illegible] advance in the price of wheat at Liverpool and a [illegible] large. The strength also was attributed to favorable [illegible] Argentina, which is delaying [illegible].

Influenced by reports of [illegible] stocks of wheat at Minneapolis [illegible] and freely sold toward the [illegible] of the session. May opening [illegible] to [illegible] decline was due to [illegible] to reports of the good condition of fall sown wheat. On the decline there was much covering by shorts and also good buying by commission houses and [illegible] Nearly all of the earlier loss was recovered. The market closed fairly firm with May at 88¼.

Early in the day the corn market was moderately firm following a fair advance at Liverpool, but later prices yielded to general selling and the market became weak and sentiment continued bearish until the close of the session. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 42⅝, to 42⅝@42⅞, sold off to 41⅞@42 and closed at 42⅛.

Despite a firm market for hogs, provisions were weak all day. At the close May pork was 12½ lower, lard 7½ and ribs 10 lower.

MONKEY WEARS SPECTACLES.

In the Breslau zoological garden there is a spider monkey which was operated upon for cataract, and now wears glasses. For more than a year after it was received at the zoo it was very healthy and lively. Then it became very quiet, ceased to play and crouched in a corner. It was examined and found to be suffering from cataract, so was immediately taken to the eye hospital and operated upon. In less than a month it was fitted with a pair of spectacles, which it wears with becoming gravity.—Tit-Bits.

the many so-called birth medicines, and most remedies for women in the treatment of her delicate organs, contain more or less opium, morphine and strychnine?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not take internally any medicine for the pain accompanying pregnancy.

Do You Know that Mother's Friend is applied externally only?

Do You Know that Mother's Friend is a celebrated prescription, and that it has been in use over forty years, and that each bottle of the genuine bears the name of The Bradfield Regulator Co.?

Do you know that when you use this remedy during the period of gestation that you will be free of pain and bear healthy, hearty and clever children?

WAGE EARNERS NOT AFFECTED

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW SAYS HIGHER SCALES ADD TO PURCHASING POWER OF MANY WORKERS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Dun's weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

Seasonable weather more than offset the effect on business conditions of increased activity between labor and capital. Thus far the spring have not affected any large portion of the wage earners. While in other industries the higher rates effective January 1 have added to the purchasing power of many thousands. Wholesale dealers in the leading centers complained of lagging orders, yet earnings for January will be much larger per cent larger than in 1904.

Irregularity has appeared in the hide market, branded hides being sold far ahead, while country hides are steady in the face of large offerings but some concessions are noted in packer varieties.

Failures this week numbered 208 in the United States against 224 last year and 51 in Canada compared with 28 a year ago.

How to Avoid Pneumonia.

We have never heard of a single instance of a cold resulting in Pneumonia or other lung trouble when Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It not only stops the cough, but heals and strengthens the lungs. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Dr. C. J. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia with results in every case."—Harlan Agnew Drug company.

PERSONAL

IN THE SUIT OF
JAMES DOYLE VS. JAMES F. BURNS.

I feel that in the state of Colorado there are a hundred people, or more, familiar with the personal relations existing between James F. Burns and myself during the years 1891, 2 and 3, who would cheerfully aid and assist me with the facts that they are possessed of, but withhold them because they do not know how I would receive their tenders of the same. I want to say here that I will appreciate all such tenders, and receive them in the proper spirit. I am after all evidence that I can use to establish the fact that we were partners during the years mentioned. I wish to say that I am a long way from being licked, and hope to be able to offset the power of the money that belongs to me with which he is fighting me, by a mass of evidence that will make him lay down and do the right thing.
